Christina C. has released her new romance book, "You Are My" (Cloverly Publishing), an intimate story about two people from very different backgrounds falling in love through tragedy that is sure to invigorate all readers.

Sean is a handsome undercover cop. Meya is a powerful CEO with no interest in love. After an attempted attack on Meya's life, Sean becomes consumed with protecting her, all while resisting falling in love with her. Meya finds herself drawn to Sean's mysterious and dangerous persona. Meanwhile, Meya becomes desperate for the truth, putting herself in more danger, fueling the anger in Sean.

When love is put to the test, can strength and courage be enough to survive outside forces trying to tear them apart?

"While Meya laid in bed shocked and confused over Seans actions he stood waiting for the elevator and couldn't believe he kissed her while she slept. He ran his hands through his hair and said what were you thinking you idiot. She is a victim; you can't get involved with her. Besides she would never be with someone like you anyway. Wait, what am I saying?" said Christina C. at the end of the first chapter of "You Are My."
